The Selfhelp home was established as a residence for emigrés and Holocaust survivors. In Refuge: Stories of the Selfhelp Home (airing Wednesday, May 4 at 7 p.m.), these residents share their deeply personal stories of separations, deportations, selections, and life-and-death decisions.
oven within and around Cook County stands a vibrantly unique world-class treasure: the forest preserves of Cook County. Nearly 70,000 acres of ancient prairies, pristine wetlands, marshes, and forest provide residents and visitors a wealth of environmental, recreational, and educational opportunities. There’s even a thousand-year-old canyon.

Like many natural wonders, the Cook County forest preserves are “hidden in plain sight.” Many are unaware of its vast biodiversity; others only know it for its picnic sites and bike trails. Chicago’s True Nature: The Forest Preserves of Cook County, a one-hour documentary produced by WYCC PBS Chicago and Juneteenth Productions, explores the vastness of this natural wonderland through the eyes and experiences of the people who take care of it and the people who enjoy it. The program premieres on Sunday, May 15 at 7 p.m., with encore presentations on Monday, May 16 at 9 p.m., Saturday, May 21 at 7 p.m., and Sunday, May 22 at 4 p.m.

This abundant wilderness didn’t happen by chance—it’s the result of the extraordinary vision and hard work of two architects, Dwight Perkins and Jens Jensen, at the beginning of the 20th century. Over 100 years later, the ongoing commitment by forest preserve district management to provide residents “open spaces” has led to the reopening of campgrounds, extension of restoration efforts, flood and disease control management, expanded recreational activities, and much more. Chicago’s True Nature: The Forest Preserves of Cook County takes a look at the known—and little-known—benefits and beauty of Chicagoland’s publicly owned green spaces.
Every effort is made to ensure the accuracy of the program listings. Please visit our website wycc.org for more information and for the most up-to-date listings. Special programs are highlighted in PINK.
