A NOTE FROM POLLY...

Spring is here and it's a new day at OETA!

You have a front-row seat as the great programming you've come to know and love on OETA blooms this Spring with the continuation of Les Misérables on Masterpiece Theatre Sunday nights. Get red, white and blue with that staple of public television, the National Memorial Day Concert on May 26; Celebrate the Kentucky Derby as Antiques Roadshow presents three hours of shows from Churchill Downs on May 6th, May 13th and May 20th. And, season 8 of Death in Paradise debuts on May 16th.

On April 23rd, OETA welcomed a new charitable organization called Friends of OETA, Inc. to our family. We will keep you informed as this new charitable partner brings our donors new ways to support OETA and guarantees your dollars will be spent providing the best in programming that educates, entertains and inspires.

Meanwhile, we assure you all gifts previously held for the exclusive use and benefit of OETA are protected and will shortly be transferred to OETA's new charitable organization. Keep watching this space for news of this exciting transition, and if you have questions or comments, please let us know.

We can't thank you enough for watching and for supporting OETA! 🙏

OKC's Bat Man Gallery America

Photography - Randy Hayes

Oklahoma has been home to many great baseball players. But, with names like Mickey Mantle, Warren Spahn and Johnny Bench, one could easily argue that baseball has been home to many great Oklahomans. Given our state's pedigree, it's no surprise then that a workshop in Choctaw is turning out some of the most beautiful baseball bats in the country.

On this month's Gallery America, producer Susan Cadot gives us the play-by-play on Matt Floyd, Oklahoma's very own Bat Man. The latest episode of Gallery America premieres at 7 p.m., Thursday, May 9 on OETA.

Floyd began making custom, wooden baseball bats five years ago in a large workshop behind his house. As temperatures rise, this former college ball player can be found at his lathe in the pre-dawn hours, working to fulfill orders before it gets too hot.

Floyd was looking for a way to make money that would allow him the ability to be home with his wife and three young boys, so he started watching YouTube videos about how to make bats. Once he had the weight and balance requirements down, he was ready to play ball!

"Matt and his family represent what makes Oklahoma great," said Cadot. "He's opened up his workshop to teams, kids and the community. He has a heart for the game and the people who play it, both young and old."

Floyd makes bats for several Oklahoma school teams, and for schools across the country. Along with making custom bats, and teaching classes on bat making, Floyd also offers private baseball lessons, group training, baseball camps and has built a practice field near his workshop. 📍

“BACK IN TIME” HONORED WITH OAB AWARD

OETA’s program, Back in Time, was honored with the Best of Show award for Long-Form General Programming by the Oklahoma Association of Broadcasters (OAB).

The episode of Back in Time which was honored is titled Talking Leaves and delves into the mystery, brilliance and influence of the creator of the Cherokee alphabet, Sequoyah. Back in Time is written and produced by Robert Burch. Ryan Lorg is the series’ videographer and editor.

“It’s truly an honor to receive this recognition from OAB,” said Burch. Back in Time always offers us an opportunity to tell a fascinating story. Ryan and I both are continually amazed at how rich and fascinating Oklahoma’s history can be. We’re never at a loss for subjects to explore.”

The awards ceremony took place Friday, April 5 at the Skirvin Hotel in Oklahoma City.

“We at OETA are honored by this award from the Oklahoma Association of Broadcasters,” said Polly Anderson, executive director, OETA. “Back in Time – Talking Leaves continues OETA’s sixty-plus year history of documenting Oklahoma history as part of our service to the people of Oklahoma. We’re grateful to the OAB for their recognition of the good work continuously coming from the talented staff at OETA.”

The OAB is a non-profit organization of commercial radio and television stations organized to serve the public interest and promote the cooperation and prosperity of its members. OAB provides information to its members about regulation, advertising, employee recruitment, education and training and the myriad issues affecting the broadcasting industry.
