Opening worlds of Possibilities for America’s Children

2016
PBS KIDS has an unwavering vision of a world where all children can reach their potential, and is committed to using the power of media to work towards that goal.

PBS KIDS views all children as citizens, not consumers, and offers media that empowers them to be curious, resilient and empathetic. PBS KIDS develops connected learning experiences designed to inspire exploration across platforms – on TV, on digital devices and away from the screen – so that every child can discover a world of unlimited possibilities. Through positive role models and engaging stories, PBS KIDS inspires today’s kids to be lifelong learners – sparking their curiosity and encouraging the excitement of discovery.

Parents and teachers consistently rank PBS KIDS as their most trusted and relied upon brand for supporting children’s learning and development. Through support materials for caregivers and educators, PBS KIDS ensures that tools are available to help children build key skills and reinforce learning from the early years and beyond.

The American public values PBS KIDS and confirms that it is delivering on its mission. A recent poll found that PBS KIDS is the number-one educational media brand, helps prepare children for success in school and helps all children reach their potential.
PBS KIDS has a whole-child approach to learning, offering media content that supports all of the key developmental areas a child needs to be successful in life – from communication and critical thinking skills, to literacy and science. PBS KIDS starts with the needs of today’s children, working with advisors and award-winning producers to develop content that meets those needs. Throughout the process, PBS KIDS conducts extensive research to ensure that its programming, games and activities are developmentally appropriate and that they are moving the needle in helping kids learn.

Nationwide, over 1.8 million users have registered access to digital resources available through PBS LearningMedia. This digital service provides PreK-12 teachers, students, parents and homeschooling families with instant access to research-based content and productivity tools designed to personalize learning inside the classroom and ignite students’ curiosity in the world around them.

PBS LearningMedia content has a positive impact on student outcomes when integrated into an existing curriculum. A study conducted by the Education Development Center examined the impact of PBS Learning Media content on student performance in four core subject areas – science, math, English language arts and social studies. Key findings included:

- On average, students outperformed national assessment norms by 10 percentage points overall.
- Students outperformed state assessment norms by an average of 11 percentage points overall.
- More than half (56%) of students showed an increase in critical thinking skills.

Research shows that PBS KIDS cross-platform content helps increase children’s math and literacy scores, improves their school readiness and fosters an interest in learning. PBS KIDS also increases parent and teacher engagement in supporting children’s learning.

In a recent study, children who used media content from PBS KIDS’ series PEG + CAT showed improvement in critical math areas involving ordinal numbers, spatial relationships and 3-D shapes.

The mathematical knowledge of children from low-income families rose to the pre-test level of children from higher-income families after using PBS KIDS content.

Test scores of children who interacted with Odd Squad content increased 14% from their pre-test average score on measures of knowledge of algebraic thinking and numbers and operations.

After using PBS KIDS content, parents’ confidence in supporting their children’s learning and use of activities and strategies to support learning at home increased.

Impacting Kids, Parents and Teachers in Local Communities

Through PBS’ 350+ member stations, PBS KIDS is positioned to reach kids anytime and anywhere with engaging learning opportunities. PBS stations partner with local schools and a variety of community-based organizations to bring PBS KIDS content to life, sparking kids’ curiosity and encouraging them to explore their interests. Through community outreach activities that engage educators, parents and caregivers, stations make a critical difference in the lives of America’s children – especially for those in low-income families.

Nearly 100% of member stations are actively involved in classroom education through localized PBS LearningMedia sites. Educators have access to more than 100,000 curriculum-aligned digital resources that include content aligned to national and state standards.
PBS KIDS: The Next Chapter

PBS KIDS nurtures the whole child, has proven impact and has significant reach across the U.S. and in local communities. PBS KIDS and PBS stations offer a service that parents and teachers trust, kids love and the American public values. Through multiplatform media that reaches kids and gets them excited about exploring, PBS KIDS is leading the way in inspiring the next generation of lifelong learners and leaders.

Looking ahead, PBS KIDS will soon build on its mission of reaching all children with high-quality educational content with the launch of new, free multiplatform 24/7 services. Provided by local stations, the free services will include a new TV channel and live stream on digital platforms. PBS stations across the nation will be able to broadcast PBS KIDS shows 24 hours a day on an additional television channel and offer a live stream, making it easy for children to watch their favorite series during primetime and other after-school hours when viewing among families is high, especially among children in low-income homes. Viewers will be able to watch the live stream through pbskids.org and on the free PBS KIDS Video App, which is available on a variety of mobile devices, tablets and over-the-top platforms.
